

Why are Kurdish people risking their lives to seek asylum?

Kamal Chomani (The Kurdistan Times)

In November 2021, at least 27 people tragically lost their lives in the English channel. Many of them are believed to be from the Kurdistan Region of Iraq. Likewise, many of the refugees currently at the Belarus/Poland border appear to be from the same region.

This event will host Kamal Chomani, an independent journalist and political analyst from Kurdistan. Chomani will speak about the current situation of these refugees and comment on political developments that have led to recent episodes of migration from the Kurdistan Region to Europe.

Moderator: Dr Dilar Dirik (Joyce Pearce Junior Research Fellow)

4:00pm UK, Monday, 6 December 2021

Via Zoom

Details at: www.rsc.ox.ac.uk/event-kamal-chomani

www.rsc.ox.ac.uk/events

Follow us on social media...

